- 153. Every legislative Act must be accompanied by a statement from the Law Officer of the Crown to the effect that in his opinion the Governor's assent may or may not be properly given thereto, and also by a report from the Governor or from the Law Officer giving all requisite explanation respecting the object of the Act and any legal or political question which it may involve. development of the Dependency during the preceding year, including in particular information as to the general tendency of trade. The report should contain a prefatory historical and geographical note, followed by information under the headings:—

Government,
Population,
Health,
Housing,
Production,
Commerce,
Wages and Cost of Living,
Education and Welfare Institutions,
Communications and Transport,
Banking, Currency, Weights and Measures,
Public Works,
Justice and Police,
Legislation,

Public Finance and Taxation.

Opinions, forecasts, controversial matter, details of merely local interest, and tabular statements other than those required for the elucidation of the text should be excluded.

161. Colonial Governments should arrange for the interchange of reports on subjects of common interest,

C. Military and Air Forces.

- 162. Governors who are actually in command of His Majesty's forces must separate their correspondence with the Secretary of State for the Colonies and the Secretaries of State for War and Air, as prescribed in the following Regulations 163 to 167.
- 163. All matters which relate to the discipline of the forces, or to the employment of them in any ordinary and established service, or to the relief of the forces after their time of local service shall have expired, or to the interior economy of His Majesty's land or air forces, will probably form the subject of correspondence with the Secretary of State for War or Air, as the case may be, exclusively.
- 164. In the event of actual hostilities with any foreign enemy, or of any extraordinary employment of the forces for the maintenance of the public peace, such occurrences must be reported both to the Secretary of State for War or Air, as the case may be, and to the Secretary of State for the Colonies.
- 165. In the event of its being thought necessary to make or to advise any military or air convention with the officer in command of the military or air forces of any foreign Power, a Governor commanding His Majesty's forces will at the same time report to the Secretary of State for the Colonies and to the Secretary of State for War or Air, as the case may be, the measures which he may have so taken, or those which he may wish to recommend for adoption.
- 166. In case it should be necessary, in order to render the Governor's military or air force reports clear, to make reference, in his correspondence with the Secretary of State for War or Air, as the case may be, to questions connected with his civil authority, he will in every such case at the same time bring such questions under the notice of the Secretary of State for the Colonies.
- 167. As any attempt to define the limits of a Governor's civil and military or air force correspondence may, from the nature of the case, be imperfect and may omit to provide for some unforeseen exigency, he will best meet the requirements of the Secretary of State for War or Air, as the case may be, and of the Secretary of State for the Colonies by conducting his civil correspondence exactly as he would conduct it if he possessed no military or air force command, and vice versa. The two functions of Governor and of Commander of the Forces, though for the time combined in the same person, should be regarded in this respect as entirely separate, and the reports made by the Governor in each capacity should be made precisely in the same manner as if that combination of functions did not exist.
- 168. When a Governor who is not actually in command of His Majesty's forces shall have occasion to report upon, or bring under the consideration of the Secretary of State for the Colonies, matters which involve military or air force as well as civil considerations, or which require the concurrence or decision of the Secretary of State for War or Air, he will, if there is an officer commanding military or air forces in the Colony, first communicate with that officer respecting the matters in question, and, having obtained that officer's opinion or observations thereon, he will transmit the same, with his own report, to the Secretary of State for the Colonies, and will, in every case, furnish the officer commanding with a copy of any report he may make involving military or air force considerations. If the officer commanding considers that these reports require the consideration of the Secretary of State for War or Air, he will forward the duplicates with his observations by the same mail which conveys the original report to the Secretary of State for the Colonies.
- 169. Similarly, under the King's Regulations, when the officer commanding the troops or air force in a Colony desires to bring to the notice of his military or air force superiors any matter which may involve civil as well as military or air force considerations, he will first communicate with the Governor with a view to obtaining his opinion thereon. He will transmit with his own report any opinion or observations he may thus obtain; and will in every case furnish the Governor with a copy of any reports he may make on subjects other than military or air force discipline and routine. If the Governor considers that these reports require the consideration of the Secretary of State for the Colonies, he will forward the duplicates with his observations by the same mail which conveys the original report to the Secretary of State for War or Air, as the case may be.

D. Naral.

170. The Governor or, in his absence, the Governor's Deputy, if one has been appointed, will write in his ewn name to any senior naval officer (that is to say, the senior officer then within his immediate reach), holding the rank of Flag Officer, Captain, or Commander, but will communicate with any senior officer of lower rack through his private secretary. In no case will be so communicate through the Colonial Secretary.

171. Any notice or direction which the Governor may have occasion to convey to the commander of any foreign vessel in the waters of the Colony will be transmitted through the officers of the Colonial Government and not through the officers of His Majesty's Navy, whose intervention should not be applied for unless and directions forwarded through the ordinary channel should fail to produce their effect.

E. Shipping.

- 172. Under the Imperial Acts relating to merchant shipping certain duties in relation to merchant shippers are imposed on Colonial officers. 185. The preceding rule requiring transmission of correspondence with the Secretary of State through the Governor is based on the strongest grounds of public convenience, in order that all communications may be duly verified, as well as reported on, before they reach the Secretary of State. CHAPTER VII.-FINANCE.

A. Accounting Officers.

188. The Treasurer, besides being the Chief Financial Adviser to the Governor, is the chief Accounting Officer of the Colonial Government, and subject to these Regulations and to such instructions as may with the authority of the Secretary of State be approved by the Governor, the financial and accounting operations of the Government are under his general management and his supervision, but it is also the duty of the Colonial Secretary, the Auditor, the heads of departments, the sub-accountants and all accounting officers to take care that these Regulations are duly observed.

The term sub-accountant means an officer who is entrusted with the receipt, custody, and disbursement of public money and who is required to keep one of the recognised cash books, the transactions in which are subsequently embodied in the final accounts rendered by the Treasurer.

189. It is the duty of the Treasurer in his capacity as Chief Accounting Officer:-

- (i) To see that the proper system of account is established in every department of the Colonial Government;
- (ii) To exercise supervision over the receipts of public revenue and as far as possible to secure its ounctual collection;
- (iii) To bring promptly to account, under the proper heads and items, all money, whether revenue or other receipts, paid into the Treasury or accounted for to him;

(iv) To see that proper provision is made for the safe keeping of all public money and stamps;

- (v) To exercise supervision over all the officers of his department entrusted with the receipt or expenditure of public money, and over the sub-accountants, and to take precautions, by the maintenance of efficient checks, against the occurrence of fraud, embezzlement, or carelessness;
- (vi) To supervise the expenditure and other disbursements of the Government: to take care that no payment is made which is not covered by proper authority, expressed or referred to on the voucher relating to it: and, in case of any apparent extravagance or of any apparent defect in the provision for a charge owing to the exhaustion or absence of a vote, to call the attention of the Colonial Secretary in writing to the matter;
- (vii) Promptly to charge in his accounts under the proper heads and items all disbursements of the Government, whether expenditure or other payments.

(viii) To render the accounts for audit and to prepare the Financial Statements and Returns.

- 190. The Treasurer will from time to time cause surprise inspections to be made of the accounts of his sub-accountants. He will report to the Colonial Secretary any material irregularity connected with the public accounts that may have been brought to his notice.
- 191. Heads of departments, sub-accountants and all accounting officers are personally and pecuniarily responsibile for the due performance of the financial duties of their departments or offices, for the proper collection and custody of all public money receivable by them, and for any inaccuracies in the accounts rendered by them or under their authority.

The responsibility of the Auditor for checking and reporting any shortcomings in connection with the public accounts or finances does not absolve any officer from his responsibility for complying, or securing compliance, with instructions within the scope of his own authority. No officer will be relieved from any portion of his responsibility should he depute to his subordinates the performance of duties which he should have performed himself.

192. The Auditor and his deputies are at all times entitled to have access to all books, records, or returns relating to accounts, and all accounting officers will give them every facility for inspecting such documents.

193. It is the duty of all accounting officers promptly to reply to any queries addressed to them by the Auditor, giving fully the particulars or information desired.

B. The Estimates.

194. Annual Estimates of the revenue and expenditure of a Colony will be submitted by the Colonial Secretary to the Governor at such a date as will admit of their consideration by the Legislature, their transmission to the Secretary of State, and the receipt of his reply by post, before the beginning of the year to which the estimates relate. Where local circumstances render this impossible, the Estimates should be transmitted so as to reach the Secretary of State as soon as possible, and in any case before the beginning of the year.

- 195. The Estimates will show against each item of revenue or expenditure the amount estimated for the coming year and the amount of the approved Estimate of the current year. Where the expenditure of a department is provided partly by annual votes and partly by a civil list or other special law, the amount provided by law will appear in an inner column, the total of which should be added to that of the item and so provided. The Estimates will thus show under each head every item which is expected to come in come of payment during the year of estimate, including not only those which are submitted to the Legislator for discussion and appropriation but also those which, being already provided, are included in the Estimates for information only. The law authorising the provided expenditure should be named in each case.
- 196. The Abstracts preceding the body of the Estimates will show the totals of all the heads in the Estimates and will have four columns, one for the actual revenue or expenditure of the last completed year, one for the approved Estimates of the current year, one for revised estimates of the same, and one for the estimated revenue or expenditure of the coming year.
- 197. The Estimates of Revenue should, except in the case of Government railways, include the gross receipts of the Colonial Government, except repayments of advances, proceeds of loans appropriated by law for expension works, receipts from sales of investments, deposits, and remitances. They should include all feest day fines, and rents payable into the Colonial Treasury, any amounts payable to officers in respect of such receipts being provided for in the Estimates of Expenditure under the sub-divisions entitled "Personal Emplayments."
 - 198. The revenue should be arranged under comprehensive heads. It falls generally into four broad classes
 - (1) Duties, taxes, licences, &c.;
 - (2) Receipts for, or in aid of, specific Government services—such as fees or hospital receipts;
 - (3) Receipts on account of undertakings of a commercial character; and
 - (4) Revenue from Government property, such as land, houses, and investments.

It will be convenient to have several heads for each of these classes, but care should be taken that no best comprises items coming under different classes, and that revenue derived from taxation is easily distinguished from revenue not so derived.

- 199. Stamp duties should not form a separate head. If the same description of stamp is sold for different revenue purposes, and there is thus no means of distinguishing the use to which the stamp is put, the training receipts from such stamps should be provided for under a separate sub-head "Stamps sold for various revenue purposes" under the head for licences, or that for payments for specific services, according to the nature of use bulk of the receipts.
- 200. The proceeds of the sale of Government lands and premiums on leases should be kept distinct in the Estimates from the total revenue from other sources.
- 201. In Colonies where a deficit is to be met by a grant or loan from Imperial funds, the estimate of the amount to be so received should appear under a separate head of revenue following and distinct from the total revenue receipts from other sources; and in the case of such loans any anticipated repayments should similarly appear under a separate head of expenditure.
- 202. If the Colony is receiving a grant or loan from Imperial funds to meet certain specific expendence, the estimate of the grant or loan should, in like manner, be shown under a distinct head of revenue, and two expenditure in respect of which it is made should be shown also, if possible, under a separate head of expenditure below the total ordinary expenditure of the Colony.
- 203. There should be no head for "Arrears of Revenue." Interest received on arrears of revenue at a 2 be brought to account under the same head as the revenue of which the arrears accrued.
- 204. The Estimates of Expenditure should be framed so as to show as nearly as possible the amounts was it is expected will actually be spent during the year. No deductions will, however, be made from the insulation of the Estimates, or of any head, on account of probable savings on salaries owing to the absence of others as leave, or on account of any general presumption that the expenditure will be kept within the estimate.
- 205. Each head of department is responsible that all services that can be reasonable forescen are monded in his departmental estimate and that no unauthorised increase of salary is inserted therein.
- 206. Under the heading for each department there will be two sub-divisions—"Personal Embluracets and "Other Charges."
- 207. Subject to the provisions of Regulation 235 all items whatsoever of personal emolurants to just a officers will appear under "Personal Emoluments", which will, therefore, include (besides salarse processed duty, entertainment, and house allowances, allowances in lieu of quarters, fuel, and light, clothing all was repaid in money, fees and percentages or commissions. Each allowance will be described in a separate line, as not included with the salary, but the whole of the personal emoluments of each officer in respect of each legar ment will be shown together. Pensionable emoluments should be distinguished from those and pensace when a star or other indication.
- 208. Where salaries are increased by regular increments, the minimum and maximum salaries, with the increment, should be stated within brackets, the amount payable within the year being inserted in the contrast.
- 209. Where an officer receives emoluments under more than one head the fact will be indicated to references or explanatory footnotes. Any pension or compensation allowance, or other emolument in reserving public service, including the provision of an official residence, will be similarly shown.
- 210. Allowances made in reimbursement of public expenses, such as transport allowances, translowances, and allowances for office or clerical expenses, will be placed under "Other Changes."
- 211. The sub-division "Other Charges" will include all services other than personal emoluments at: can be properly apportioned to the particular department.
- 212. Every head of expenditure will include, as far as possible, all the items relating to the particular in ment, so as to show clearly the total estimated cost of that department during the year. Province as made, under the heads concerned, for the charges on account of services rendered by other Government departments. Where services of a general character cannot be divided and charged to different departments, they will be provided for in separate sub-heads under the head "Miscellaneous."

- 213. Each head of expenditure will be divided into such sub-heads as may be decided in the case of each Colony. The total personal emoluments of each department will make up one sub-head and small items under "Other Charges" not of a distinctive character may be grouped under a sub-head of "Incidental Expenses." Items not so grouped will be shown as separate sub-heads.
- 214. No items of receipt or expenditure will be included under the head "Miscellaneous" which can appropriately be placed under any other head, and, if necessary, new sub-heads will be opened for any such items.
- 215. No provision is to be made for "Unforeseen Expenditure"; any item for "Contingencies" or for "Miscellaneous" under the head "Miscellaneous" should be strictly confined to petty and casual charges which are foreseen but which are too unimportant to be provided for separately.
- 216. New heads or sub-heads should be opened for items of receipt or expenditure not properly falling within any of those already appearing in the Estimates.
- 217. The total estimated expenditure of the year should not in ordinary circumstances be allowed to exceed the total estimated revenue. In the case of an anticipated excess a footnote should explain in what manner it is to be met, and in the Appropriation Law the expenditure for the year should be made a charge on the revenue of the year "and other funds of the Colony."
- 218. The estimates of the charges on account of public debt should be arranged in the chronological order of the loans provided for.
- 219. There will be two heads for public works in addition to that for the establishment of the Public Works Department. All annually recurrent services will be placed under the first of these heads: and other works under the second. There will thus be three heads of expenditure administered by the Public Works Department, viz.:—"Public Works Department, viz.:—"Public Works Annually Recurrent", and "Public Works Extraordinary."
- 220. In the case of works not annually recurrent which will extend over more than one year, there should be shown not only the estimate for the year, but also the original estimate for the whole work, the revised estimate (if any), the total amount actually expended so far as accounts are complete, and the total amount likely to have been expended on the work up to the beginning of the year of estimate.
- 221. The Estimates should be accompanied by explanations respecting every item of an unusual nature therein comprised and of the difference under each item between the proposed expenditure or anticipated revenue, and the approved estimate for the preceding year, as shown in the parallel columns. Twelve copies of the Estimates should be sent to the Secretary of State or, where they are not printed, two copies at least.
- 222. The Estimates should be accompanied by a statement of the assets and liabilities of the Colony at the close of the last completed year of account, and a statement, partly estimated, of the assets and liabilities at the beginning of the year to which the Estimates relate.
- 223. The Appropriation Law will not include sums specifically provided by law, but only such sums as require to be voted by the Legislature for the service of the year, and will appropriate these sums under each head of expenditure in the Estimates. In cases of expenditure in excess of these sums, only the net excess on each head will require supplementary appropriation, but Appropriation Accounts, showing the excesses and savings on each sub-head of the Estimates, should be laid before the Legislature and the Secretary of State.
- 224. The Governor will not propose to the Legislature the execution of any important public work for which he has not obtained the previous sanction of the Secretary of State.
- 225. Special cases of pressing emergency may arise in which it is impossible to obtain the previous requisite sanction of the Secretary of State for a proposed work. In such a case the Governor will submit his proposals to the Legislature, and, having obtained their approval, will seek the sanction of the Secretary of State at the earliest opportunity.

C. Receipts.

- 226. All receipt entries in the accounts must be vouched for on the form prescribed by law or regulation.
- 227. Except where etherwise provided and in cases where receipts are not required (such as Customs duties or sale of stamps), accounting officers must give receipts, from books of counterfoil forms bearing printed consecutive numbers, for every sum paid to them. Where such a check can be obtained the counterfoils should be signed by the payers and, in cases in which revenue is payable by adhesive stamps, the stamp must be effectually cancelled. Numbered counterfoil receipt books will be supplied by the Treasurer, who will be responsible for their custody and to whom the counterfoils will be returned when the receipt forms are exhausted or as may be otherwise directed. Counterfoil books should not be cut or divided.
- 228. All licences, permits, certificates, passage orders, and other documents for which payments are received will be issued from counterful books printed with consecutive numbers.

What a authorised, accounting officers, on the receipt of any such negotiable instrument, will enter the amount there in their cash books as revenue collected, taking credit for the same when handed over to the Treasurer.
- 235. Where fees are received from the public by an officer in his public capacity they need not be part into or accounted for to the Treasury if they are wholly appropriated to the remuneration of such officer and are not a pensionable emolument, but the officer receiving them will be required to make a monthly record in the Treasury. In all other cases fees received from the public by an officer x to public capacity, which are appropriated, either wholly or in part, to his remuneration, will be dealt with note same manner as other receipts of public money and the total amount paid into or accounted for to the Treasury. Special Warrants shall be prepared and signed in triplicate, as in the case of the General Warrant, and copies filed in the same offices. The foregoing procedure does not apply to expenditure incurred by the Crown Agents in England on instructions received from the Secretary of State.

E, Classification and Control.

265.—(1) When the annual Estimates have been passed by the Legislature and approved by the 💝 tary of State, and the Appropriation Law allowed by His Majesty, the expenditure of the year most be to be definitely limited and arranged. Should any further disbursements on account of the service of the year be required, which could not have been foreseen, cannot be postponed without detriment to the reservice, and cannot appropriately be charged to an existing sub-head of the Estimates or will cause any exthereon, approval by the Legislature and the Secretary of State of the necessary additional provision for materials. disbursements will be sought in the following manner:-

(a) Where the provision for the supplementary expenditure is not in excess of an amount first be the Secretary of State in the case of the individual Colony, and the supplementary expeniers not of such a nature as to raise some question of principle or involve a breach of some recrus or some previous ruling by the Secretary of State, the Governor may on his personal respective. give his sanction to such supplementary expenditure being incurred, subject to the in the state of the amount of such provision in a Schedule of additional provision for the quarter for such as the period as may be adopted in the case of the individual Colony) in which such sanction was are-

(b) In all other cases, the Governor will, at the earliest possible opportunity and if practically in the any expenditure is incurred, submit an estimate of the supplementary expenditure to the Legislature and the Secretary of State and obtain their approval of it. The amount state provision so approved will be included in the next Schedule of the year.

(c) The Schedule for the quarter (or other shorter period) will thus include under heads and sales and sales are shorter period. all provision for expenditure in addition to that provided for in the Estimates or m provided Schedules for the year, which has during that period been approved by the Legislature and Secretary of State or has been authorised by the Governor in anticipation of the approval the Legislature and the Secretary of State. It will be despatched to the Secretary of State. later than one month after the close of the period to which it relates, but in any case befor well of the financial year. In the event of the Legislature not having dealt with it when it is described to the Secretary of State, the resolution of the Legislature upon it will be reported to the Secretary of State subsequently as soon as possible.

(2) If after the close of the financial year it is found that supplementary, expenditure has no series and that year which has not been included in any Schedule, and the Governor consider that such expension should be admitted as a charge to public funds, he will as soon as possible submit a statement of such expenditure to the Legislature and the Secretary of State for their approval of its being so charged.

- 266. If the supplementary expenditure causes an excess on a head, such excess should ultimately be covered by a supplementary Appropriation Law.
- 267. The Governor is not authorised to make any addition to the fixed establishment of the Colony nor to alter the appropriation of the established salaries of any public department, either as regards the number of appointments, or the rates of salary and emoluments, without the previous sanction of the Secretary of Stat.
- 268. The Estimates form the basis of the accounts of the year to which they relate, and the classification and sub-division of the accounts of revenue and expenditure must accord with the detail of the Estimates.
- 269. It is the duty of a head of a department to watch the expenditure of his department with reference to the amounts provided in the Estimates, and to report at once through the Treasurer to the Colonial Secretary whenever it may appear that the amounts provided will prove insufficient for the service of the year. Whenever the Treasurer makes any charge against a vote by transfer from the Crown Agents' account or the account of another department, he will immediately notify the head of the department responsible for the vote, who will post his vote account accordingly.
- 270. If charges are made against a head which, although apparently chargeable to that head, do not clearly come within the meaning of any of the sub-heads, they should be brought by the Treasurer under the notice of the head of the department concerned and of the Colonial Secretary, with a view to the insertion of an additional sub-head in the accounts.
- 271. The authority for expenditure conveyed by an Appropriation Law lapses at the end of the financial year to which it relates, and if further expenditure is necessary for the completion of any service it must be provided for in the Estimates, or in a Schedule of additional provision, of the year in which the sum will actually be expended. The authority conveyed by warrant and requisitions similarly lapses on the last day of the financial year in which they are issued and no payments may be made after that date, except under the authority of Warrants or Requisitions issued for the service of the ensuing financial year.
- 272. The date of receipt or payment governs the date of the record of the transaction in the accounts. In no circumstances may payments be made before they are due for the purpose of utilising an anticipated saving on a sub-head, nor may the unexpended portion of any sub-head be drawn from the Treasury for the purpose of setting it in reserve to meet impending payments, or to be carried to a deposit or suspense account. On the other hand, expenditure properly chargeable to the account of a given year must, as far as possible, be met within the year, and must not be deferred for the purpose of avoiding an excess on the amount provided in the Estimates.
- 273. Where any officer, department, or board administers on behalf of the Government any commercial or industrial enterprise, or any service involving receipts and payments, the whole of such receipts and payments shall, excepting where otherwise authorised by the Governor with the approval of the Secretary of State, be accounted for to the Treasurer, and included in his monthly and annual accounts; and the estimates of the department will be prepared accordingly.
- 274. When a personal advance in anticipation of salary is allowed, it will be debited as an advance to the recipient and not to the vote for his salary. Any advance made to an officer is to be notified to the head of his department, who will take care that proper arrangements are made for repayment and that no salary is subsequently paid unless such arrangements have been made and are complied with.
- 275. In accounting for the purchase or sale of securities on account of the Colonial Government, the cost price or price realized will be entered under Investments or Investments Realized "below the line," that is, following after and distinct from the entries relating to revenue and to expenditure charged against revenue. Any profit on sale as compared with the value at which the securities sold appear in the accounts will be carried to current revenue and any loss charged to expenditure.

At the close of each financial year, each of the securities held on account of the Colonial Government will be valued at the current middle market price in London on the last working day of the year, and the value assigned to each security in the accounts will be adjusted so as to correspond with that price. The amount by which the new value exceeds or falls short of the old value will be carried to the credit or debit of an Investments Adjustment Account, and the balance of that account will be carried to revenue or charged to expenditure.

Where securities are held on behalf of a fund so that they belong to the fund and not to the Colonial Government, a similar procedure shall be followed, but the gain or loss will accrue to the fund and not to the Colonial Government.

When securities are transferred from one fund to another fund in the custody of the Government, they shall be so transferred at the current middle market price in London at the date of transfer.

- 276. If a Colony receives a grant or loan from Imperial funds to meet certain specific expenditure, the grant or loan when received shall be brought to account below the line, and payments on the service charged to expenditure above the line. At the end of each month, an amount equal to the amount which has been charged as expenditure during the month on the service, or if the grant or loan is only to meet a part of the expenditure, then such part of that expenditure as ranks for assistance from Imperial funds, shall be debited to the below the line account and credited to Revenue.
- 277. Any necessary expenditure on services of a confidential nature, the purpose and particulars of which cannot be divulged, will be specially reported to the Secretary of State and will be supported in the accounts by the Governor's certificate of payment and declaration that he has satisfied himself that the money has been properly expended.
- 278. Unless the amount involved does not exceed the limit up to which the Governor has been authorized to sanction on his own authority such writing off, abandonment, or revision, and neither fraud nor negligence on the part of an officer is involved, the authority of the Secretary of State is required

(a) for the writing off of any loss of public money or stamps, or
 (b) subject to the provisions of Regulation 241, for the abandonment or remission of any claim for money due to the Government, or

(c) subject to the provisions of Regulation 345, for the writing off of any sum which has appeared as an asset in a previous account.

F. Loan Expenditure.

- 279. The complete authority requisite for expenditure which is to be met by loan consists of an enactment of the Legislature and the sanction of the Secretary of State. This is normally secured by the passing of the Law authorizing the raising of the loan and the expenditure of the money so raised.
- 280. Where the law authorizing the raising of the loan does not specifically authorize the execution of the particular works contemplated, and the amount to be expended upon each, those amounts require the sanctson of the Legislature and the Secretary of State.
- 281. In cases where sufficient loan funds are not immediately available and the expenditure must therefore be met in whole or in part out of current revenue or surplus balances subject to reimbursement when the contemplated loan has been raised, such expenditure will be charged as an advance pending reimbursement. The amount to be advanced in any year will require the sanction of the Legislature and the Secretary of State.
- 282. The anticipated loan expenditure during the year will not appear in the body of the Estimates but a full statement of such expenditure, including a schedule showing the salaries of any staff specially engaged, should be appended to the general Estimates of the Colony, and receive the approval of the Legislature and toe sanction of the Secretary of State. In the case of expenditure on a public work, the particulars mentioned in Colonial Regulation 220 should also be given.
- 283. When the statement referred to in the preceding Regulation has been approved by the Legislature and sanctioned by the Secretary of State, the loan expenditure of the year must be held to be definitely limited and arranged. Should any further disbursements during the year be required, the approval of the Legislature and the sanction of the Secretary of State will be necessary.
- 284. The authorities mentioned in the preceding Regulations 279-283 are addressed solely to the Governor: and before the Treasurer makes any payments in respect of loan expenditure he requires the Governor authority, which should be conveyed to him by Loan Warrants under the hand of the Governor or of the Colonial Secretary signing "by command".

G. Remittances and Imprests.

- 285. All payments due by a Colonial Government to public departments or other creditors in the United Kingdom, and, unless otherwise authorised, all payments due to other Governments, shall be made through the Crown Agents for the Colonies.
- 286. The Crown Agents shall be kept continuously in funds by the Treasurer, whose duty it is to watch the account of the Colony with the Crown Agents, to be prepared to meet their current requirements and to notify them in good time if local circumstances make it necessary to arrange for temporary accommodates in aid of the Government's account with them.
- 287. The maximum cash balance which may be retained by sub-accountants will be calculated upon their average current requirements and fixed by authority of the Governor, and the Treasurer will be resumented for seeing that such balances do not exceed their authorised limits.
- 288. The cost of remittance of salaries or pensions not drawn through an agent of the Colony will be deducted from the amount remitted.
- 289. If it is necessary for any officer other than a sub-accountant to have at his disposal, for disburyment on the public service, money for which vouchers cannot be presented direct to the Treasurer or a sub-accountant for payment, he will receive an imprest of such amount as the Governor may sanction.
- 290. The Governor's sanction will be conveyed by Imprest Warrant, and the Treasurer will be held recover sible that no imprest is made without such Warrant, and also for seeing that all imprests are duly accounted for in accordance with the terms of the Warrant covering them. The Governor may give a general Imprest Warrant to the Treasurer authorising him to make imprests, as may be necessary, for any duly authorised service.
- 291. Imprests are not to be charged in the accounts as final expenditure, the actual payments only, cert of such imprests, being so charged. Cash payments made by the Treasurer or his sub-accountants by way of imprest will be entered in the cash book and totalled with the rest of the payments in balancing it. Impress will not be treated by the Treasurer as "Advances" or "Remittances" but will be accounted for, below the line, under a separate head "Imprests." The imprests and the amounts of the authorised payments accounted for will be posted to a personal imprest account of the officer concerned.

H. Custody of Public Money.

292. Wherever possible, the Governor will employ one or more of the banks in the Colony for the contacts of public money either on current account or on deposit. He will be responsible for seeing that effect is given to any instructions from the Secretary of State for limiting the amount of public money that may be at any one time in the custody of a bank. He will communicate such instructions to the Treasurer, who wai > responsible for their strict observance, and also to the Auditor, whose duty it will be to report at cose to the Governor for the information of the Secretary of State, if he should find that the prescribed lamit has here exceeded.

- 294. The Treasurer will keep in his own immediate charge only such sums of money, not exceeding a certain fixed maximum, as may be necessary to meet current cash disbursements.
- 295. The strong vault will on no occasion be opened, nor will any money be deposited therein or withdrawn therefrom, except by the three officers entrusted with the keeping of the separate keys, and on every such occasion they will sign a joint record of every sum deposited or withdrawn, which record will be kept in the vault.
- 296. All cash received by public officers will be deposited as soon as possible in the safe or vault provided for the purpose, or paid into a bank. Negligence in this respect will throw the entire responsibility for any loss upon the officer concerned. No public officer shall keep or allow to be kept in any Government safe under his charge any money except public money or such as by virtue of his office he is bound to receive and account for.
- 297. Where public money is to be paid into a bank, the Treasurer and the sub-accountants so instructed will make such payments daily. Private money will in no circumstances be included in a public banking account.
- 298. The Treasurer's bank account must not be overdrawn, nor any temporary advance obtained from the bank, without the special sanction of the Governor.
- 299. The main stock of stamps, both postage and revenue, will be kept in the safe or vault appointed for that purpose. A stock book will be kept, in which will be entered under each denomination the number and value of stamps received and issued; and this book, on each occasion of either a receipt or issue, will be initialled by the officers appointed to have joint charge of stamps. Stamps will be issued on requisition and a receipt taken from the officer to whom they are issued.
- 300. Boards of Survey, to be held after the close of business on the last business day of each year, or before the commencement of business on the first day of the new year, will be appointed by the Governor to examine the Treasurv cash, bank balances, and stamps, both at headquarters and as far as practicable at the outstations. Boards will also be appointed from time to time to hold surprise surveys of the cash and stamps in the custody of the Treasurer and his sub-accountants.
- 301. Officers entrusted with the receipt, custody, or disbursement of public money may be required to give security, in accordance with the local law and regulations, for the faithful discharge of their duty. In every case of default the liability of sureties must be enforced.
- 302. An officer appointed to act for another officer on leave will be required to give the same security as that required to be given by the officer for whom he acts.

- 303. Every entry in the accounts will be supported by a voucher containing full particulars of the item or items to which it relates.
- 304. The Treasurer will keep in his office the following principal books of account:—Cash Book, Abstract Book, Journal, and Ledger; together with such subsidiary books as may be necessary.
- 305. In the Cash Book will be entered all cash transactions as they occur. The entries will be numbered consecutively, on each side of the book, in the order of the receipts or payments, and corresponding numbers will be affixed to the supporting vouchers. The Cash Book will be balanced at the close of each day, and the balance shown compared with the cash in hand. If the balances do not agree, the discrepancy will forthwith be investigated by the Treasurer. If they agree, a certificate will be filled in by the officer in charge of the Cash Book, showing the opening cash and bank balances, the receipts and payments for the day, and the closing balances. This certificate will be countersigned by the Treasurer and sent to the Colonial Secretary as often as may be prescribed by the Governor.
- 306. Every sub-accountant will keep a cash book, in which he will enter all sums of money received or paid by him as a public officer, for whatever service, whether they form a part of the Colonial revenue or not. He will balance his cash book weekly at least and check the balance with the money in his hands. Officers having large financial responsibility will be required to balance their cash books daily.
- 307. Every sub-accountant will send his cash book or a certified transcript or summary of it to the Treasurer immediately after the close of each month, accompanied by the necessary supporting vouchers.
- 308. When the various cash books, or the transcripts or summaries thereof, are received in the Treasury, they will be checked with the supporting vouchers, and any items insufficiently accounted for will be disallowed. Amounts so disallowed will remain with the balance of the account as a charge against the subaccountant and, if not in due time properly vouched and justified, must be either recovered from such officer as the Governor may hold responsible or provided for by proper authority.
- 309. The Abstract Book will be posted by an officer or officers other than the officer in charge of the Treasury Cash Book, when the Treasury staff permits of this arrangement. - 313. As soon after the end of each month as the sub-accountants' accounts have been abstracted the entries in the Abstract Book will be totalled. The totals of the entries which have been made in the sub-entriest Journal for the month will then be posted into the Abstract Book; the expenditure credits, in respect of over debits in the current year, will be deducted from the expenditure, and the revenue debits, in respect of over credits in the current year, from the revenue. The resulting totals will be entered in the Abstract Book and the totals for each ledger account will be posted in the principal Journal.
- 314. The Ledger will be posted monthly from the principal Journal. It will contain one account for reverue and one for expenditure, an account of surplus and deficit, accounts of loan funds, of advances, deposits, drain and remittances, and of every fund in the custody of the Government, and such other accounts as the Treasurer shall approve. A trial balance of the Ledger will be made as soon as each month's account has been prested, and a summary of the balance sheet under its principal divisions, but excluding the balances of the accounts of funded debt and sinking funds, will be published in the Official Gazette. This summary will form the Statement of the General Assets and Liabilities of the Colonial Government, and show the excess of accets over liabilities as a balance identical with the balance of the Surplus and Deficit Account.
- 315. The Surplus and Deficit account will be posted exclusively from the accounts of revenue and expenditure; and will accordingly furnish the accurate record of the balance between them, from month to menta and from year to year.
- 316. Every head of a department will keep a Departmental Vote Account in such form as will clearly show at any time in respect of each vote for his department:—
 - (a) the total amount of expenditure sanctioned for the service of the year,
 - (b) the amount of expenditure charged, and
 - (c) any further known liabilities in respect of the service of the year.

 - (b) Schedules of the vouchers, under each head of receipt and payment, setting out the various items, arranged according to sub-heads;
 - (c) Vouchers for all items arranged in the order of the schedules.

In Colonies in which the accounts are audited direct from the Treasury books, it will not be necessary to prepare the documents (a) and (b).

The Abstract Account shall include only sums which have actually been received or paid within the perad of account.

318. All account books will continue to be carefully preserved, but vouchers and counterfuls may, as a general rule, be destroyed with the approval of the Governor after the lapse of a clear interval of seven years.

- 321. As soon as possible after the expiration of each financial year, the Treasurer will furnish an Armi al Abstract Account showing the whole of the receipts and payments in the year, and the full opening and change balances.
- 322. The Annual Abstract Account will be accompanied by detailed statements of revenue and expenditure, showing the amounts actually received or expended during the year as compared with the estimates under consub-head, together with explanations of the differences.
- 323. With the Annual Account, there will also be furnished the Statement of the Assets and Lash, other of the Colony at the close of the year, together with the following documents:—
 - (a) A statement of advances outstanding at the end of the year;
 - (b) A statement of deposits outstanding at the end of the year;
 - (c) A statement of investments, showing the amount of stock held on the last day of the year, together with the actual cost and the market value at that date;

- 324. The Auditor is responsible for the audit and inspection of all public accounts of the Government, whether such accounts be of general revenue and expenditure, or accounts of special funds, or departments accounts.
- 325. The Auditor is not responsible for the accuracy of the books of account so as to relieve the Treative heads of departments, or other accounting officers of the responsibility therefor, which primarily rests to them. He will nevertheless apply such an examination as will enable him to ascertain that the accounts are kept on a correct system, that they are punctually and properly posted, and that the checks against irregulants and fraud are adequate and effective.
- 326. He will satisfy himself that the laws of the Colony, the Colonial Regulations, and the instructions of the Governor in all matters of finance and account are strictly observed, and will bring to the motive of the Governor any failure in their observance.

- 327. The Auditor will not undertake any examination of accounts, partaking of the nature of pre-audit, which involves the acceptance by him of a responsibility which would preclude him from full criticism of any accounting transactions after they have been duly recorded in the account books of the Colony.
- 328. The Auditor will not undertake any duties outside those appertaining to his post which, by reason of the nature or amount of the work involved, might prevent him from performing efficiently his duties as Auditor, without the special authority of the Secretary of State, or, in Colonies where the Auditor is responsible to the Director of Colonial Audit, alternatively, the approval of the Director of Colonial Audit.
- 329. The examination of the accounts will be carried out either at the local audit offices or at the offices of the various accounting officers, as may be most convenient.
- 330. The Auditor will examine and check the subsidiary books and the accounts of the authorised imprests and advances, and ascertain whether such imprests and advances are punctually accounted for and repaid. In the event of any imprest having been made to an officer without special authorisation, before a previous imprest has been accounted for, he will report the fact to the Governor. He will at once report any unauthorised advance to any officer or account or any other unauthorised disbursement appearing in the books. In his examination of the deposit accounts he will ascertain that all deposits which have remained unclaimed for five years are, in the absence of special reasons to the contrary, written off to revenue. He will call attention to any apparent neglect in the collection of arrears of revenue.
- 331. He will in all cases refer to the authorities regulating the expenditure provided for in the Estimates, and will see that the expenditure is in accordance therewith. In the case of expenditure which has not been provided for in the Estimates he will ascertain whether the necessary funds have been voted by the Legislature, and whether the expenditure has been duly sanctioned by the Secretary of State. He will satisfy himself that in every charge against a head the money expended has been applied to the purpose or purposes for which such head was intended to provide, and that it is charged to the proper sub-head.
- 332. He will satisfy himself that adequate regulations exist for the guidance of store accountants and are duly complied with.
- 333. He will call upon the accounting officer for explanations of the cause of any undue delay in the rendering of accounts, or in furnishing any statements or returns that he may require, and, if the explanation is not satisfactory, will report the circumstances to the Governor.
- 334. If the Auditor finds any irregularity in the books, cash, stamps, or stores, for which the head of a department is responsible, he will at once notify the Governor. Should he find the books of any subordinate officer in an unsatisfactory state or discover any irregularity, he will at once notify the head of the department and, if the case be serious, report the circumstances to the Governor.
- 335. As soon as possible after the close of the financial year the Auditor will prepare a report on the revenue and expenditure of the year, in which he will deal with the collection of the revenue, the state of the arrears, the manner in which the accounts of the Colony are kept, the sufficiency of existing checks against fraud, the nature and extent of the audit applied, and any special questions arising out of the accounts. In Colonies where the Auditor is responsible to the Director of Colonial Audit, he will furnish this report to the Director of Colonial Audit and to the Colonial Secretary. In other Colonies he will address the report to the Colonial Secretary for the information of the Governor. In both cases the report will be laid before the Legislature and a copy will be transmitted by the Governor to the Secretary of State.

The Governor will not alter the report in any way for presentation to the Legislature without the consent of the Auditor or the prior approval of the Secretary of State.

336. The Governor will report forthwith for the decision of the Secretary of State any case in which he has over-ruled the maintained opinion of the Auditor in any matter relating to the public accounts.

L. Stores.

- 337. Local purchases of stores should be confined to articles produced in the Colony or to articles which, owing to special circumstances, can be purchased as advantageously in the Colony as they can be ordered from abroad.
- 338. Any stores which may be purchased in the Colony should, unless the estimated cost is less than an amount to be laid down by local regulation, be obtained by contract after public tender. If, however, no tenders are made or the Governor has ground for belief that the tenders sent in are collusive or unreasonable, other arrangements may be made. All tenders will be submitted to a Board of not less than three persons appointed by the Governor.
- 339. All requisitions from a Colony for stores required from the United Kingdom, or from countries not being adjacent to a particular Colony, will be sent direct in duplicate to the Crown Agents by the Colonial Government.
- 340. The Crown Agents, being the agents of the Colonial Governments, will comply with all requisitions sent to them which bear the signature of, or are forwarded by, the proper officer of the Colonial Government, and they will not refer to the Secretary of State unless they have reason to doubt whether in existing circumstances any particular requisition should be complied with. The officer concerned will therefore be held responsible that no requisitions are sent to the Crown Agents unless the expenditure has been duly authorized.
- 341. Orders will in no case be given by the Colonial Government directly or through local agents to firms in this country or in countries not adjacent to the Colony, although the names of firms whom the Colonial Government may for any reason wish to employ may be mentioned in the body of the requisition forwarded to the Crown Agents. The Crown Agents will be guided by the wishes of the Colonial Government unless they have reason to consider that this course is not in the interest of the Colony, in which case they will subsequently explain to the Colonial Government the reasons for their action.
- 342. Purchases of stores required from an adjacent country should be confined to articles produced in that country, and should be procured as far as possible in the manner prescribed by Regulation 338.
- 343. Every officer having in his charge or custody any stores or other articles which are public property will keep a proper store ledger or inventory to record their disposal.

- 344. Boards of officers, which should not include the storekeeper of the stores to be surveyed, will be appointed by the Government the end of each year, and at such other times as may be necessary, to inspect and report upon Government stores; but this will not relieve heads of departments of their responsibility for satisfying themselves by occasional stocktaking that the balances on the ledger are actually in stock.
- 345. The writing off of losses and deficiencies of stores will require the authority of the Governor: but where such losses or deficiencies are caused by fraud or negligence, and it is desired to relieve the response officer of any part of his pecuniary liability, the authority of the Secretary of State will also be required.
- 346. Articles will only be condemned as unserviceable on the report of a Board of Survey, except in the case of minor articles of a perishable nature, where the Governor may at his discretion discrete with a Berl
- 347. Unserviceable stores, if sold, will be disposed of by public auction or by tenders after public advertement. unless the special approval of the Governor is obtained for their being sold otherwise. If such stars are unsuitable for sale they must be destroyed, unless they can be utilised immediately or within a reactable time for some public service other than that for which they were purchased; but any condemned stores is retained must be suitably marked to prevent their use for the original purpose and should be brought on charge in a subsidiary ledger for obsolete stores.

M. Government House.

- 348. The Government House, together with its stables, garages, outbuildings, fences, and other apparetenances, will be kept in substantial repair throughout at the cost of the Colony. The rooms will be passed and papered (when necessary) and furnished at the public expense. Plate and table ornaments to a medicate and reasonable amount, together with crockery, glass, cutlery, and kitchen utensils, will also be provided at the cost of the Colony.
- 349. All furniture and effects supplied at the public expense will be kept complete, and any article lest of damaged otherwise than by fair wear and tear during the occupation of the Government House by any officer will be made good at his expense.
- 350.
